GRAPHIC OUTLINES OF HISTORY
By F. F. DANIELSEN
THE PRAIRIE SCHOONER
About the time of the gold rush to California, the only means of transportation was the "prairie schooner" and horses. Those who dared to penetrate the west suffered many hardships at the hands of the Indians and through hunger. Because of the danger pioneers traveled in strong bands. At sundown, camp was made by drawing the "schooners" in a close circle, with sentinels around the entire camp.

Returns From North Country With Fish And Swim Stories
William A. Meyer and Teacher Kranz have returned home from northern Minnesota where they spent their vacation at the Heidorn Summer Resort. They had a great time but Mr. Meyer found it rather strenuous keeping up with his companion, Teacher Kranz. He says that Mr. Kranz may be getting a long in years, but on a vacation trip he had a whole lot of the young men beaten. He caught the biggest fish of the trip, a ten pound pickerel. But it was not the fishing that surprised Mr. Meyer so much as the swimming feats that Mr. Kranz would indulge in. The first time it occurred, there was a scare. Nothing unusual was thought when Mr. Kranz casually announced that he was going fishing. But a short time later when they could not find him upon the shore and no answer was heard to their calls, they became alarmed. Their anxiety was relieved, however, when faintly in the distance they heard an answer and straining their eyes they saw a form swimming in the middle of the lake. There are not many men over fifty years old, who would attempt such a feat.

MT. PROSPECT ONE OF BEST PAVED TOWNS

Palatine, the first town to install modern pavements congratulates its neighbors upon their progress along that line. Thus we are giving publicity this week to the following account about the progress Mt. Prospect is making.

In 1922 the village of Mount Prospect was a somewhat isolated community on the Northwestern Railroad—a milk station 20 miles from Chicago—with just 422 persons to call it home and with miles and miles of prairie land stretching in all directions. Today—six years later—Mount Prospect has a population of 1046 and is a growing suburb of Chicago.

But the greatest change which has come to the village during these years has been the plotting of several large subdivisions and the preparation for the great population to come. Foremost in these plans for the greater community of tomorrow is the extensive concrete pavement program inaugurated in 1926 and carried out continuously since. Where in 1922 there was only one state highway through the town, today there are more than 287,000 square yards or 22 miles of modern pavements, designed and constructed in accordance with the most up to date specifications. And on these modern pavements, far-sighted buyers and investors have purchased homesites.

Some of Chicago's foremost realtors have opened subdivisions in Mount Prospect. And unlike some developments where lots were sold without any inducement other than plenty of air and sunlight, every developer has conformed with a comprehensive program of improvement before any lots were sold. The guiding personality behind this concentration of effort has been William Busse, member of the Cook County Board of Commissioners for 28 years and President of the Village of Mount Prospect. Just as he was one of the first and strongest advocates of concrete roads for Illinois, he has recommended permanent improvements for his home town.

These modern pavements in Mt. Prospect have been laid out with a thought to beauty as well as to utility. In one of the new developments the streets are winding, following the contours of the rolling country. Wide, easy curves are part of the plan and lots on these curves will have long, easy flowing frontages which will afford ample opportunity for effective landscaping. A magnificent golf course has been built and opened and will be a part of the purchase for buyers in one of the developments. Other developers are building playgrounds, artistic entrance ways to their streets and placing small parks at turns of the streets. The general effect will be one of pleasing beauty.

It was the determination of all persons connected with the construction of pavements that only the best construction and design should be used.

Pavements laid with a view to sale but not to future satisfaction were definitely barred. In conformation with this expression, designs were drawn which would insure getting the best pavements. And this good design was backed up by specifications which would insure the concrete being properly mixed, placed and finished.

In laying out the streets a width of 24 feet was selected as best serving our purpose. Most of the streets paved since have followed this width. In our first construction an integral curb of the low roll type, 6 inches high, was used. This year the curb was changed to a height of 4 inches, but is still integral and of the roll type.

Curbs run only down to the bottom of the pavement slab. In placing reinforcement for the street slab the reinforcement is carried back to a point 2 inches from the back of the curb. This reinforcing is not bent up or down, but forms a horizontal plane through slab and curb. In this way the curb and slab utilize the same reinforcement and each gain strength from the other.

All the pavements are of 7 inch uniform thickness. The mix designed by the engineers is 1:2:3½ and this proportion is adhered to except where ordered changed by the engineer. The concrete is mixed under water cement ratio control with a set amount of water per sack of cement. The mixer used is of 6 bag batch capacity and in charging the drum the quantity of water used ran from 2½ to 2½ gallons per batch. Under construction conditions prevailing a bulking of 15 per cent in sand was calculated.

All pavements are reinforced with mesh weighing 58 pound per 100 square foot. Over trenches or cuts under the new subgrade an extra 5 inches of concrete is placed and extra reinforcement in the form of ½ inch rods at 6 inch centers is used.

A water measuring tank is installed on the mixer to control water content. This tank is of the visible type so that the inspector can constantly check the amount of water. As a further check on water, the contractor designed and installed a water meter which registered the amount of water going into the drum day by day. At the end of each working day the amount of water used during the day was checked against the number of batches placed. This method proved very satisfactory and served to keep the water content accurate. All materials were turned for a full minute to insure thorough mixing.

All aggregates for the job were batched at the contractor's plant. The aggregates were batched by volume through a batcher hung under aggregate bins. The aggregates were hauled from the plant to the mixer in one batch trucks. Gravel was used as coarse aggregate, the maximum size ranging from 2 to 2¼ inches.

The engineers in designing the pavements specified that good finishing methods be employed. This specification was incorporated to insure an absence of rough joints, waves in the slabs or uneven surfaces. The finishing operations used by the contractor consisted of one screening, one rolling and then two beltings with a canvas belt. A wood float was used over all joints.

On the 24 foot streets no longitudinal joints are used. Where pavements were laid in this, as at intersections or at widenings, a longitudinal joint is installed. Expansion joints are placed at intervals 14 times the width of the pavement. Expansion and longitudinal joints are ½ inch, filled with pre-molded joint filler. An interesting feature of joint construction occurs in the curbs where all expansion joints are 1 inch wide. This 1 inch width is carried out into the pavement slab for a distance of 14 inches from the back of the curb. All joints are dowelled.

The pavements were cured during 1927 and 1928 with calcium chloride applied on the surface. Cylinders cured under identical conditions showed good strengths obtained.

All of the street pavement construction to date has been done by the same contractor, Milburn Brothers of Rockford, Ill. Consoler, Older and Quinlan are the engineers for the work. L. I. Johnston is supervising engineer in charge of operations for the engineering firm.

WHEELING FESTIVAL TOMORROW

The celebration for which the Wheeling Commercial Club has been preparing for the past four or five weeks will be held this coming Saturday. The final preparations are in the process of being completed and by the time of dawning Saturday all will be ready for the joyous festival.

The enterprise has enlisted the interest of the greater part of the community and the work has progressed with great satisfaction.

The interesting event of the evening will be dancing on the dance floor constructed for the event. Music will be supplied by the Luxembourg Quartet.

During the entire afternoon refreshment booths will be open to supply good things to suit the various tastes while numerous games, in as many booths about the grounds, will supply further entertainment.

OPEN BIDS ON WIDENING OF MIL. AVENUE

Contracts for the paving of 25.8 miles of additional wider highways in Cook county have been ordered let by President A. J. Cermak, following the receiving of bids on Aug. 17 at 2:30 p.m.

These roads are part of the massive highway building and highway widening program which is part of the $15,000,000 Bond Issue plan. Already more highways are being built in Cook county than was ever before attempted by any highway department of any county in U. S. In the plan there is an equal division of wider and new highways in the south, west and north sections of Cook county.

Among the roads to be widened and built are the following:

Milwaukee avenue (widening) from the County line to Dempster St., 7.1 miles. This will bring widened Milwaukee avenue down to the widened section which has already been improved by the City of Chicago and will aid traffic considerably through the northwest.

Lake St. (widening) from the County line to 25th avenue 3.9 mi. This will make a new widened highway to accommodate western traffic through Melrose Park on the west.

Halsted St. (widening) from 167 St. to 130th St. (Chicago City Limits) (4.5 mi.) This will book up a widened highway with the improved Halsted St. within the city limits and will give a widened outlet to the South of this important thoroughfare.

Harrison St. from Buck Road to 12th St. and the County line to Mannheim Road 2.1 mi. This will connect Roosevelt Road at the County line with a new 42 foot highway (Harrison St.) which runs southwest, west of Mount Carmel cemetery and will relieve east bound traffic materially from Roosevelt Road and will hook up with the planned improvement of Harrison St. with a 42 ft. highway from First avenue Maywood to Mannheim Road. This leaves only a stretch on Harrison St. to be planned from First avenue Maywood to Desplaines avenue, Forest Park and a complete new entrance to Chicago on the west will have been provided which will save approximately 20 minutes in travel from places like Maywood, Bellwood, Hillside, LaGrange, Hinsdale and other western suburbs to the loop.

95th St. (widened) from California avenue to Western avenue, 6 mi. Dixie Highway (widening) from I. C. Railroad, Homewood to 147th St. (Lincoln Highway) 3.9 miles.

Dixie Highway (widening) 147th St. Chicago Heights to I. C. Railroad, Homewood, Ill., 3.7 miles. This stretch of 7.6 miles of improvement on the Dixie Highway will link up with the Dixie Highway widening south of Blue Island which was done this year and will furnish a 40 ft. traffic lane from Blue Island to Homewood.

183rd St. from Reigle Road to Halsted St., 9 miles.

"I am very pleased with the progress being made by Superintendent of Highways, G. A. Quinlan, said president Cermak today. Major Quinlan was instructed to proceed as speedily as possible with the widening of pivotal highways which will relieve the most traffic and the program he mapped out for 1928 will indeed make a record for Cook county. He is helping me carry out my pledge to the people that I would make of Cook county a Mecca for automobile drivers of America."

Landmeier Apartments
Represent Very Latest
In Fine Apartments

There are fourteen lucky renters who will have homes in the Landmeier apartments that have just been completed and are located on the second and third floors of the new Landmeier building. Eleven of those flats have their tenants, unspoken for at the present time. There are lot of things about those flats that make them attractive, not the least of which is the reasonableness of the rent. The price of the largest is only $50 a month and the smallest only $32 a month. Their size being three, four and five rooms. This puts modern flats in the reach of many who thought heretofore that they could not afford them. Economy of space saving equipment has been followed but there are no stingy closets. The size of the latter are unusual. The kitchenettes are equipped with frigidaire electric refrigeration, four burner gas stoves, sink, kitchen cabinets, steel cabinets, in colors, etc. The smaller flats have indoor beds. The air shafts are worthy of special mention. One of them is 9x11 feet. There is not a room that does not have outside windows, sunlight at some time of the day enters practically every room.

Among the special features is the Receivador with which each flat is equipped. The milk and parcels are placed and locked therein by the person who delivers them. When they are taken out by the tenant, the outer door is automatically unlocked ready to receive other packages. The mail boxes in the lower hall are another feature. The mail man carries the master key by which he is able to deposit the mail in the respective boxes which are later unlocked by the tenants. Speaking tubes extend from the hallway to the respective flats. Janitor service, with janitor rooms are provided on each floor.

The facilities in the basement is of special interest to the tenants, each of whom has an individual store room. A multitude of laundry tubs, eight gas plates, eighteen gas meters and the same number of electric meters gives individual service to each tenant. The connections to the gas plates and electric boxes for washing machine operation have individual locks and there is no reason for the charge for gas and electricity being made to their wrong tenant. A special switchboard is installed in the basement by Mr. Landmeier to simplify installation of telephones, connections being provided for that purpose in each flat.

The outside walls and floors of each flat are soundproof. Rubber matting is upon the hallways. The "roof garden" is a feature that is made possible by the one story store building owned by Mr. Landmeier, to the east of the new block. Steel stairways lead from the second and third floors to the roof of the small building, which has direct connection to the roof of the garage and storehouse. There the clothes will dry on wash days and there on pleasant evenings, the tenants will find garden seats for their use.

With a central heating plant and automatic regulation, every room will be properly heated during the winter. Mr. Landmeier has already found that the demand for flats exceeds the supply and is of the belief that the start has only been made on the construction of flats in Arlington Heights, which when built in connection with business property make an attractive investment and at the same time permits reasonable rents.

Among the tenants in the Landmeier apartments are a number of the high school teachers.

COOK COUNTY'S GREAT FALL FESTIVAL

Otto Landmeier Celebrates Store 25th Anniversary In New Model Hdw. Store

The hardware stock of Otto Landmeier was moved into its new building two weeks ago, but the official opening is taking place this week. In connection with the sale, Mr. Landmeier secured the cooperation of many manufacturers and is quoting prices of exceptional bargains, details of which can be learned from the full page announcement that appears on page eight of this issue.

A special interest to the general public, however, is the Landmeier building itself. It represents the very latest in construction and many features are embodied in this building that are found in few other business blocks erected in Arlington Heights up to the present time.

In the first place that building means more to Mr. Landmeier than a necessary business expansion. It represents a dream he has long had to celebrate his 25th anniversary as a merchant in Arlington Heights by giving to the town a model hardware store. With that store he is giving to the general public fourteen model apartments and at moderate rentals. Eleven of these apartments have been rented and many of them are already occupied.

The store building proper is 60 feet wide and 90 feet deep. The size of the lot permitted the use of the recessed entrance which gives the advantage of model window displays. A tile entrance lobby with Virginia antique marble baseboards give an inviting appearance and serve as an invitation to the shopper to stop and "window shop." The possibilities for display are so good that there is good prospects that the sightseer will enter the store and become a customer.

No expense has been spared in the lighting of the store, and installation of fixtures, etc., but the store quarters are so large it will be sometime before the stock can be permanently placed. Mr. Landmeier plans to assemble in the various departments those things that are associated together, giving to each the prominence that it deserves. Universal stores have been one of the biggest sellers in the store and Mr. Landmeier naturally gives the prominent place to these stores, carrying a stock upon his floor that is probably larger than that which is to be found in any other northwest suburban town.

Practically the entire stock of the store is within reach of the customer, making selection easy on the part of the latter. Display counters and shelves place within easy reach the goods in the departments devoted to aluminum, granite ware, tin ware, gifts, galvanized ware, household, cooking utensils, etc. The floor space permits long aisles where the more bulky goods are on display. Other departments are devoted to paint, mechanics and carpenter's tools, contractor's supplies. A special room is devoted at present to the display of complete bath room outfits, heating plants, water softeners, automatic pumps, washing machines, etc. In the basement will be found the fencing, barbed wire farm hardware, glass, etc.

The Landmeier building was constructed in record breaking time and completed fifteen days ahead of the contract by Mr. Schaefer, the builder. Mr. Landmeier is at present remodeling his old building, corner of Dunton and Campbell street with the purpose of making that building as similar to the new building as it is possible. Recessed entrances will be installed to the business stores, of which there will be four. An entire new front and new brick work will be erected. The flats are to be made modern and other changes made which will transform this brick business block in Arlington Heights into a modern store and flat building.

Postmaster Helfers Is On Vacation Trip In St. Louis Neighborhood

Postmaster Ben Helfers, Mrs. Helfers and her sisters, Esther, Freda and Agnes, are upon a vacation trip down in the "show me" state. They are visiting relatives in the neighborhood of St. Louis and expect to return Sunday. The postal employees do not have very much spare time but by a little extra work on their part, everything is running as smoothly as ever.

Foundations for New High School Completed

Workmen are rushing the alteration work at the Arlington Heights high school in preparation for the opening of the school Sept. 4th. There is still a lot of work to be done in the gymnasium and the rearrangement of the showers, etc., but Supt. Brown will open school on time even if the workmen are occasionally in the way. The foundations for the addition are completed.

All Not Worth the Money

The American people pay $20,000,000 a year for their music, including about $15,000,000 worth that isn't.—Boston Transcript.

Petty Thievery Gets Local Boys Into Trouble

Petty thievery of parts and accessories from an Arlington Heights garage is now regretted by four Arlington Heights boys. For some time they had been stealing parts from these cars. The value of the goods taken was not so very great, but success in their efforts resulted in greater ambitions along that line and last week, they took a whole car. They abandoned it on Euclid avenue. Receiving a tip the garage owner investigated and found one of the four lads busily engaged in removing parts. Under questioning, this lad confessed and implicated his partners in crime. The parents have this week to pay for all damage; otherwise criminal action will be started.

It is just in such a manner that many bandits start upon the road to crime and a little use of the strap in the "woodshed" on the part of the parents, would probably straighten the boys out. The garage owner does not want to be hard boiled, but if the parents do not take sufficient interest to bring corrective measures, it is up to somebody else to act, which in this case would be the sending of the boys to jail.

Palatine Wild Cats Lose To Elgin Team

(Received too late for last week)
The Elgin Orioles Sunday, on account of the Cats lack of confidence walked into victory, making the score a large one 15-3. The first part of the game went fine with the Orioles ahead 6-2, and the Cats having bases loaded and no outs, threw the chance away for being too anxious to bring the boys home. Had these runs come in the Cats would have felt a little more ambitious. Again it happened with two men on, but no runs came in, getting only 3 runs in all. One in the 1, 2, 5 innings. Jim's pitching at times was a wild affair, for after putting all the speed behind the ball anyone can expect, didn't face the big Orioles one particle. They had to be grooved right over the pan or they wouldn't bite.

You can imagine how it is. Only 4 strike outs to his credit. The Elgin dukes played a wonderful game with only one error, and plenty of hits. They were a team just a little out of the Cats class, but the Cats showed the large crowd that they were game and tore right in. It probably wasn't so interesting to everyone as one might expect but the Cats appreciated the interest which the fans showed on Sunday. Herman Timmerman umpired the game for both sides, and there isn't a man that got it over Herman, for he watches every ball and play very closely. There were no arguments or any criticism throughout the struggle. It was the first game Mr. Timmerman umpired for the aCts, but they hope it is not the last one.

Lost Silk Sheen Restored

That the original sheen of silk, artificial fiber and mercerized cotton may be restored is claimed by chemists in Berlin, who say they have found a new chemical preparation for the purpose. All that is necessary to restore the gloss is to wash the material in the chemical, which is said to also act as a disinfectant.

What is Due the Public

The Bell System recognizes the public requirement for a constantly extending and improving telephone service. Last year four million telephones were either put in or moved. The number of local calls not completed on the first attempt was reduced by five per cent. The average time for handling toll and long distance calls was reduced from two minutes to one and one-half minutes.

During the last five years the Bell System spent $1,300,000,000 on additions, and improvements of its plant.

The very nature of the telephone business necessitates a single interconnected system. The Bell System accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust. It is fundamental in the policy of the system that all earnings after regular dividends and a surplus for financial security be used to give more and better service to the public.

Progress on Morton Grove Public School

The school building, when completed, will be one of the finest public improvements in the village. The architectural lines are taking a pleasing form, the face brick is attractive, and the added space will be a great boon to both teachers and pupils.

At present the building is surrounded by a maze of scaffolding and piles of building material.

Observers walking past after the workmen have left for the day, have noticed that many children come to the building, climb the scaffolding and the piles of building material and partially wrecked portions of the old building. Parents should caution the children that scaffolding is only temporary, boards are not supposed to be nailed and secured as in permanent building, piles of material can topple over when extra or uneven weight is added; by having the children understand these things, possibly an accident or injury may be avoided or prevented.
